1. Repeal Cashless Bail laws that make our communities less safe. We need to have safe communities before we can have anything else.
2. Promote Economic Development by working with business to create a more business friendly climate.
3. Lower taxes for families across the state so we can control population loss to states like Florida and Texas.
4. Combat inflation by promoting responsible spending in Albany.
5. Extend the gas tax holiday to help struggling New Yorkers through the energy crisis.

NYS needs to allow for the safe extraction of natural gas, which is a safer and more reliable resource than traditional fossil fuels.

New York State's unprecedented 221 billion dollar state budget includes taxes and regulations that impede and hamper economic growth and development, both for new and existing businesses. I am for a more transparent state budget process where businesses who are impacted by the budget have a seat at the table. We need to ensure a business friendly climate is in place in NYS so that economic opportunity exists for all.

Low cost broadband access for all communities is necessary in every corner of the state to promote economic development and equal access to technology.

I believe New York State needs to do a better job of supporting and promoting trade schools technology based learning in order to prepare for a more advanced workforce.

As a police officer for nearly 25 years, my first priority is to reduce crime and violence all across New York State. Once crime is reduced, I will focus on responsible government spending and accountability to keep residents from moving out of state. I will encourage a business friendly environment by encouraging tax reductions and opportunities for small businesses. I am not a community activist running for office, I am a common sense taxpayer that understands the importance of jobs, low taxes, and safe communities for all families.
